Extended Bio:

Marjorie Jobe is an experienced business attorney who has been practicing law since 1987. Originally from Missouri, Marjorie received a degree in English with honors from the University of Missouri and her law degree from the University of Houston.

Marjorie always knew that she would become an attorney and due to her fierce drive and determination, she received her law degree when she was just 22-years-old. She has taught business law courses and political science courses to upper level college students.

Frustrated by the many legal injustices she has seen throughout her years in practice, Marjorie was compelled to write The Business Law Battle Plan for Entrepreneurs in an effort to help business owners stay out of court. Her hope is that the book will empower readers to implement a plan for their own legal protection.
